

Hi Michael,

Thanks for a thorough summary post.

You raised the issue of the freely accessible threat analysis tools, which as you rightly mentioned these come with benefits, but also clear drawbacks. Without the need to register to use these tools there is no limit to how they could be used in the wrong hands - moving into the realms of hacking.

You have utilised a range of further research, however you need to ensure you use the Harvard referencing format.

Regards, Beran