Criteria and weighting	Level	Comments
Knowledge and Understanding weighted 25%, Use of relevant sources weighted at 5%	Very Good	This topic builds on the concept of gender pay gaps from the Literature review summative. Noted for the Research Proposal presentation you have moved this research on as required by the summative. Whilst there is clear knowledge demonstrated in the discussion and presentation, there is quite a lot of content to cover given the manner in which the topic is structured, [this was highlighted in formative feedback for the RPP]. The Research Proposal presentation, [given the nominal time to complete the presentation itself] would have benefitted from a more focused and linear perspective regarding research and discussion. It will be important to take this advice on board for your final Capstone project, as all module studies for the UoE are small scale studies.
Criticality weighted at 25%, Use of relevant sources weighted at 5%	Very Good	Checking the Turnitin match; matches tend to be around the phraseology of 'gender pay gap' as opposed to direct extensive content from existing sources, and so I am just making that distinction in comments here. There is very good use of research resources generally, do however reflect on comments in 'knowledge and understanding' regarding focus. Focusing your topic down, gives more opportunity for deep research to take place.
		There is very good criticality in the content, in that there is effective comparison and discussion of points made. There are reflections of how research applies to current and recent real-world scenarios and there is theoretical underpinning which evidences research concepts. As discussed there is however, a lot of content which can detract from deeper critical reflection.
Structure and Presentation weighted at 10%	Excellent	The structure and presentation of the power point is consistent, with a visual theme running all the way through the power point itself. There is connection regarding slide text and your oral presentation which is good practice, and there is also effective use of visuals

Presentation and Communication Skills weighted at 30%	Excellent	The oral presentation discussion mirrors your transcript. The presentation came in around the 15-minute benchmark for the summative which is good practice. My main comment here is that there was so much to discuss in the summative limited time frame, that you were inclined to speak quickly to fit all content in. As discussed through other learning outcomes, narrow your focus down for future and this will also facilitate the opportunity to pace your oral presentation a little more and slow content down. Overall this outcome does tip into excellent however, regarding presentation and communication of the topics taking all into consideration for this particular outcome here.
