

Feedback – Peer Reviews – The Human Factor – Michael Geiger

You have provided a good overview of the two essays and provided some constructive criticism with areas that could be improved or further developed. You have identified some good areas for further development. Your references show a good understanding of the material and offer a good level of knowledge to enable your peers to develop their ideas in more detail.

The one area where you needed to focus a little more was on providing some critical analysis, instead of describing what has and has not been done well, try and dig a little deeper into the why, to show why this is important.
